Glenbard North reaching out to help hurricane victims

The students and staff at Glenbard North High School are working to help those devastated by Hurricane Katrina. The school is hosting a fund-raising campaign for the victims of the hurricane that has ravaged the gulf coast.

As Glenbard North has done in the past, faculty members of the foreign language and social studies departments will collect financial contributions from students, staff, and other faculty members. All financial contributions will be donated to the American Red Cross in the name of Glenbard North High School.

The collection will continue through Thursday, Sept. 8. Checks may be made payable to Glenbard North with a notation in the memo field for Red Cross or Hurricane Katrina.

Glenbard North also will collect donations in the main office, 990 N. Kuhn Road in Carol Stream.
