Glenbard bands invited to perform at prestigious state festival

Bands from Glenbard East and Glenbard South high schools have been selected to participate in the 2005 Illinois Superstate Concert Band Festival.

Glenbard students will be among outstanding middle, junior and senior high school concert bands from across the state performing Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7, at the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Twenty-four middle, junior and senior high school concert bands were selected for the festival from audition tapes or CD's by an adjudication panel of band directors outside of the University of Illinois. The Superstate Festival is sponsored by University Bands and the School of Music.

Each Superstate ensemble will receive written and taped performance comments from a panel of four adjudicators. One band from each class will be selected as an honor band to present a guest performance at the 2006 Festival. These bands will be determined by a consensus of the adjudication panel.
