Teachers association auction raises money for scholarships

The Glenbard Education Association West raised more than $800 for student scholarships in less than an hour at an auction.

In January, Glenbard West teachers donated gently used treasures, new items, gift certificates and even chocolate cookies to the ever popular auction. The event was so well attended that the Glenbard Education Association West is planning a second silent auction in the spring.

Each spring the Glenbard Education Association West offers scholarships to graduating seniors who someday will become teachers. The scholarships will be awarded at the senior honors convocation in May.

Glenbard West students are encouraged to speak with guidance counselors about numerous scholarship opportunities. Scholarships range from $500 to one scholarship worth $13,000 that is renewable for four years. Students must submit their scholarship applications to the guidance office by Friday, Feb. 24.

Community members interested in creating a scholarship may contact Glenbard West counselor Kate Culloton at (630) 469-8600 Ext. 2540. A scholarship is a thoughtful way to give back to your alma mater, help young people reach their goals or honor a lost loved one.
