Glenbard West teen earns perfect scores on three areas of SAT

Congratulations to Alexandra Reed, a senior at Glenbard West High School in Glen Ellyn, who scored perfect 800 scores on two tests of the SAT: critical reading and mathematics and an 800 on the SAT U.S. history subject test.

The SAT's critical reading section includes short reading passages and long reading passages. Students must answer sentence-completion questions and questions based on passages they have read.

The SAT's mathematics test includes expanded math topics, such as exponential growth, absolute value, and functional notation, and place greater emphasis on such other topics as linear functions, manipulations with exponents, and properties of tangent lines.

The U.S. history subject test evaluates students' knowledge of and ability to use material commonly taught in U.S. history and social studies courses.
